Cookie Policy

Cookies are small text files placed on your computer to collect standard internet and visitor behaviour information. Cookies allow website applications to provide you with a personalised website experience and proved statistics on how you use the website. For further information, visit allaboutcookies.org.

Some cookies last for a set time period, say a day or until you close the browser, others last indefinitely. Overall cookies help us to provide you with a better website as we can monitor which pages you visit.

We do not use cookies to collect any personal information on our website, or to share your browsing behaviour with any third party except Google Analytics. We use Google Analytics to collect generic, anonymous data from all visitors to monitor how our website is used and improve our website.

You can choose to accept or decline cookies. Most web browsers automatically accept cookies, but you can usually modify your browser setting to decline cookies if you prefer. This may prevent you taking full advantage of our website.

If you have any questions relating to cookies, please email me at admin@feelingfound.com.
